

Education Monthly

April 2013

We recently witnessed the Inauguration of President Obama. A recent article from the Masonic Service Association Short Talk Bulletin (a publication I highly recommend) deals with the Inauguration of George Washington, a Mason and of course the first American President. I have shortened the article to publish it this month.

There are to be 3 Masonic Education Conferences this year, Ottawa & Thunder Bay in May and London in the Fall. Details of these appear below. I hope many of you will attend these. They are for Masons by Masons and will be well worth attending

This article<sup>1</sup> by V.W.Piers Vaughan, the Master of St. John's Lodge No.1 of the Grand Lodge of New York, relates a fascinating account of the Bible used for the inauguration ceremony of the first President of the United States, Bro. George Washington. The commonly held history of this is that on the day of the inauguration officials had forgotten to bring a Bible. Someone ran off to get one & on his return the Bible was opened at random but the corner of the page was turned down to preserve it for posterity.

But why would they forget the Bible at such an important event where everything else was being laid out in detail? There is a story in St. John's Lodge that one of the members located a pamphlet which revealed that far from the romantic notion that Washington had sailed across the Hudson river & straight to Federal Hall he had actually crossed the Hudson weeks before & his officers and key civilians had planned every last detail of the inauguration.

Washington was a religious man whose household contained a Bible, which was read every day. We know he traveled throughout his campaigns with the Good Book beside him. With all this time to plan there is no doubt that he would have sought in advance the Bible to be used in the ceremony.

New York was at that time a melting pot of nationalities and religions. Residents and the many spectators were inheritors of diverse Christian beliefs for which many had been persecuted in their homelands. How could they use a Bible without the church from which it came proclaiming that its form of Christianity had been adopted as the "official" religion of the United States?

Freemasonry was highly regarded at the time. By using the Masonic Bible a noble order was being represented. More importantly, it could be claimed that this Bible had never seen service in any church and was therefore free of any denominational issues.

It is also extremely unlikely that the Bible was opened randomly. The passage was probably very carefully selected as the passage used (Genesis, Ch. 49) is near the very front of the Bible and most persons would open a book at random in the middle.

In Genesis 49 Jacob call us his 12 sons to bless them. That makes 1 plus 12 or 13 people. At that time there were 13 colonies and New York was the Empire State, New York City then being the capital of the new country. Jacob blesses his sons and Washington blesses the colonies.
